To find the actual race duration, check at the bottom of the column you use.
Each class sails for a time in proportion to its Portsmouth Number (PN).

In the Classes column, find the slowest boat racing, and trace along the coloured stripe until it turns down into a column of the same colour. This is the column to use for timings.
(If the slow boat is not on a coloured stripe, use one higher up the page.)

Give the warning signal and start the 5 minute countdown sequence on the stopwatch.
When the countdown reaches zero, start the first class in the column; then work down the column, starting each class in the race as the watch shows the number of minutes given.

Finish the race when the watch shows the figure at the bottom of the column.
